Dear Harold:

I didn't realize I had failed to answer your letter of December, but from the tone of your most recent letter, you are apparently interested in the special hearing that Attorney General Waggoner Carr got together with the Warren Commission concerning the voucher number that was supposed to have been in Oswald's black book. I never did see the book or the number either, but was told that there was such a number. I don't know what happened to the book if there was one. I think Lonnie Hudkins is the one who wrote a story in a Houston paper about it.

I don't even remember that Rankin bad mouthed me, although he was there at the meeting we held in Washington. I don't believe anything productive came out of that hearing. I know I felt at the time that Carr was trying to get in on the assassination act, but was having trouble with his Court of Inquiry here.

I hope everything is going good with your book and although my memory is not as good as it used to be, I will try to answer anything you request if I can remember any of the details. I hope your health is better. Good luck to you.

Your friend,

GEARY, PORTER & WEST, P.C.
